

CForce Bottling Company has been closely monitoring the COVID-19 pandemic. As part of the critical infrastructure industry, we have a duty to continue to be a reliable provider of artesian water to consumers nationwide. We are not shutting down operations and will continue to produce our products utilizing recommendations from the CDC as well as local and state authorities.

What are we doing to combat COVID-19?

Cleaning & Sanitization

We have implemented additional cleaning and sanitization routines to high traffic areas and limited our facility to employees and customers only.

We have encouraged work-from-home options to office staff that are capable of doing so.

We have trained our employees in hygiene procedures and staggered shifts to minimize contact. We have also trained our staff on symptoms of COVID-19 and we encourage sick employees to stay home. If we become aware that an employee tests positive for COVID-19, we will follow the sanitization guidance issued by the CDC and inform fellow employees of their possible exposure but maintain confidentiality as required by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

Travel

We have stopped all travel and switched to online meetings to minimize risk to our employees.

Supply Chain

We source the majority of our raw materials from local companies within the United States.

CForce Bottling Company is prioritizing keeping its retail partners stocked to ensure the general public can have the access to clean and reliable water through the best distribution means possible.
